El Camino Revises Social-Club Policy

Culminating a study which extended over a five-month period, a student-faculty committee at El Camino College released its final report on the future of social clubs this week.

Major changes in the social club program were outlined by Merl F. Sloan, director of student personnel. The changes included:

(1) Expanded purpose of social clubs.

(2) Increased periods for rushing for women's clubs.

(3) A decreased period of pledging from one full semester to six weeks.

(4) The revision of pledging activities.

(5) Greater freedom in the number of meetings, allowed on campus.

(6) A voice by the clubs in the selection of their advisors.

regulations state, "Pledges should learn their organization's motto, pledge oath, activities' names, Greek alphabet, chapter's constitution, charters and members."

Pledges will be required to study in the library for a minimum of five hours per week.

In conformance with state law, the regulations state, "At no time will organizations permit hazing where pledges are degraded mentally or physically, physical punishment, impersonate the opposite sex, feasts of fortitude, drops or dumps."

All presidents of social clubs will hand all activities and pledge a copy of the hazing law, so that no one can claim ignorance of the requirements of the law.

Pledging will culminate with a picnic or dance on campus with all social clubs in attendance.

In formation of policy, student leaders agreed that officers of the clubs shall be held responsible for the clubs' activities and that all members of the organizations would sign statements of responsibility regarding the conduct of clubs members.

Individual chapters must vouch for and be responsible for their graduate members under provisions outlined by the regulations.

Originally organized for social reasons, social clubs will re-evaluate their goals and purposes for the future.

Development of leadership, brotherhood, and loyalty to the school and club, will figure prominently in future plans of El Camino College social organizations.

A cademic achievement, mannerly conduct in all situations, college welfare, a student's assumption of community obligations through service projects for the community will be added functions of the groups.

Rushing, according to the adopted procedures, will be extended to three weeks for fraternities and two weeks for fraternities.

The scholastic achievement for rushing shall be 12½ units of C or 2, average work for second, third, or fourth semester students or registration in 12½ units of work for first semester students.

Of pledging activities, the

We're on Trial

EDITOR THE PRESS:

Let's take a real close look at ourselves as a nation. We pride ourselves on being progressive and resourceful. We seem to stand out as a world leader. We are supposed to have an abundance of knowledge and the ability to get things done. With all these potentialities—why then do we fail to be a shiny example?

From down under on the other side of the world comes a report of progress that should put us to shame. I am referring to Australia's pharmaceutical-benefits plan for their senior citizens—a plan whereas their elder citizens may spend their twilight years without worry and with dignity, which they so richly deserve.

our oldsters is the Forand bill. The Forand bill we would be able to present to our people, but for the opposition of the administration, the AMA, the NAM and others.

These opponents have resorted to befogging propaganda in an almost hysterical attempt to block action. They are attempting to smear the Forand bill with the word compulsion.

Just as a decade ago when we strove for a national health insurance, the American Medical Association dubbed it social medicine.

The Forand bill fight called for a new twist, so the AMA, the insurance companies and the administration have come up with compulsion, or more realistically, against a health-care plan for the aged based on the 25-year-old social-security system.

The "compulsion" gimmick was used in the "right-to-work" campaign, when they put that label on union security, in a try to force an operation measure upon us. The people didn't buy that, then, nor will they buy it now.

We all have a stake in the Forand bill. Our young people must be far sighted and back a Forand-type bill. The years have a way of swiftly slipping by, and all at once they'll find that they are one of the senior citizens of our country.

Write to your Senators and let them know that you are backing a Forand-type bill. Write today!
